LESS TALK, MORE LEAD

Leading Your Wife Without Too Many Words · Union Study Guide

Men talk for a living — at work, in meetings, giving directions. But leadership at home doesn't run on the same fuel. This week we look at how a man leads his wife with fewer words and more weight behind the words he does use.

KEY VERSE

> "Likewise, husbands, live with your wives in an understanding way… so that your prayers may not be hindered."
> — 1 Peter 3:7

> "One who has knowledge uses words with restraint, and whoever has understanding is even-tempered."
> — Proverbs 17:27

THREE TRUTHS

- 1. Christ led by giving Himself up, not by giving speeches.
  Ephesians 5:25 doesn't picture headship as a lecture — it pictures a sacrifice. Jesus led His disciples mostly by what He did in front of them for three years.
- 2. A wife can be won without a word — through conduct.
  1 Peter 3:1-2 says godly influence in marriage is proven over time by character, not persuaded in the moment by argument.
- 3. Restraint is not the same as silence.
  1 Peter 3:7 still calls a husband to understand his wife — that takes some words. The goal is fewer, better words backed by consistent action, not muteness.

WHAT THIS LOOKS LIKE THIS WEEK

- Stay calm in the next disagreement instead of explaining your way through it.
- Initiate one thing she cares about — without being asked and without announcing it.
- Follow through on one small promise you've been sitting on.
- Sit with her in a hard moment before trying to fix it with advice.
- Start (or restart) a 60-second prayer with her — not a sermon, just a habit.
